PRESS RELEASE

United Industrial Group Expands Leadership Team, Celebrates 65th Anniversary

Washington, PA (October 22, 2018) – Today, United Industrial Group, an industry leader in the repair and service of electric motors, pumps, generators, and power transmission equipment announced the addition of Scott Wilshire as a partner and Vice President and Chief Operating Officer.

Scott brings a track record of operational and commercial experience and results to United Industrial. He has over 30 years of senior and technical leadership experience in the energy industry with 15 years in the alternative energy and industrial manufacturing sectors and 15 years with GE and Lockheed Martin supporting the US Naval Reactors program. Scott received a BS in Marine Engineering from the US Merchant Marine Academy, an MBA from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and completed the U.S. Navy Nuclear Power Engineering School.

2018 marks the 65th anniversary of United Industrial. The award-winning company has grown and evolved from a small store front to the region's most modern and fully equipped electro-mechanical apparatus repair and service organization. "United Industrial has a strong legacy and a track record of exceeding customer requirements," said Wilshire. "I look forward to bringing my experience into this business as we look to the future to grow our capabilities and levels of service."

Scott joins William Furedy, United Industrial President. "United Industrial has succeeded over our 65 years by evolving as our customer's needs have evolved," said Furedy. "I am excited about the addition of Scott to our leadership team and equally excited about United's vision for the future. This is a positive for our existing and our new customers as well as our employees and charts our path for the future."
